EU REACH - PFAS restriction proposal

Dear Business Partners

We are pleased to inform you about the delivery situation of our products. Despite worldwide challenges regarding supply chains due to the requirements in the current PFAS restriction dossiers, the supply of Metrohm products is secure for now.

Metrohm is familiar with the "EU - REACH PFAS restriction proposal" of February 2023. We formed an internal Metrohm PFAS taskforce which monitors the current PFAS - restriction proposal and engages in the public consultation intensively. We are in close contact with the authority body and give evaluation support with our 80-year experience in developing and selling analytical instruments. If there are any alterations to regulations, we will adjust and update our procedures and products respectively.

Metrohm undertakes to comply with the existing and upcoming regulatory requirements standards. Nobody can predict the further development of the possible upcoming PFAS restriction situation and its impact on future deliveries, but we strongly believe to have taken all possible precautions to prevent any supply chain interruptions.

We hope to have been of service to you and remain with best regards.
